PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Ladies,

We hope everyone is enjoying their summer! The club kicked off its first lunch social at Ciccio Cali and we have three new members, Mona Kramer, Cynthia Ebert and Vivian Sullivan. We welcome Mona, Cynthia and Vivian to our club!! Our next lunch social is at Grillsmith on Wednesday, July 15th at 11:30. Please bring a friend or a neighbor who is interested in learning about our club and the federation.

Elaine Jones will be the chair for our BINGO fundraiser, which will take place in October. More information on that event will follow soon! Remember, the BINGO fundraiser is one of our most important sources of revenue and the proceeds will help us with our administrative budget, programs and projects.

We are still looking for new ideas for projects, either hands on or featuring a guest speaker. Visit our website at www.GFWC.org for a list of our community service projects or let us know about an organization we can partner with that is not already on the list. This would be a great opportunity for those wishing to participate or to work with another club member on selecting a possible project.

Mark your calendar for our 1st General meeting on August 19th at Stonewood Grille at noon. We will be taking pictures for the club directory.

Looking forward to seeing you all at Grillsmith!

In Federation Spirit,
Carmela and Ginger
Co-Presidents

Ciccio Cali Lunch Social June 17th

VICE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Welcome to our new members! Please continue to recruit friends, family or neighbors who are interested in joining our GFWC-NT club! See you all at the next luncheon, July 15th.

Debbie Ferri

TREASURER MESSAGE

Hello! I am very excited about being our Treasurer this year and hope I can match Debbie's precision and attention to detail. Carmela, Ginger and I have been planning the budget for the new 2015-16 season and we hope we can count on everyone's membership renewal. There are so many worthwhile causes that need our support, both with our donations and our time. While most of our members have sent in their 2015-16 dues, a few of you are still outstanding. Please send your $75 check made out to GFWC-WCNT, as soon as possible so we know how much we have to allocate.

SECRETARY MESSAGE

I am honored to have been nominated and installed as the Secretary for GFWC Woman's Club of New Tampa. I will do my very best to carry out the duties according to the Secretary's Handbook that I received at our first board meeting. Juli has done such a wonderful job and will be a hard act to follow! I am looking forward to a great year working with the other board members and being a part of this wonderful Club.

Prevent Child Abuse America®

The Annual Report is Out!

The 2014 Prevent Child Abuse America Annual Report has been released. And what a year it has been!

"Every day for the past year, I have made it my goal to stretch and challenge myself with one purpose in mind: to ensure that all children have the great childhoods they deserve because our children are our future. All of us at Prevent Child Abuse America fee the same way; that's why we work here."

- James M. Hmurovich, President & CEO, Prevent Child Abuse America

Last year was a year of planning and growth for Prevent Child Abuse America, resulting in a new strategic plan for the organization, expansion of our Healthy Families America network and the decision to unveil a new logo in April 2015.

To learn more, check out the 2014 Annual Report at www.preventchildabuse.org.

An Investment in Prevention

Prevent Child Abuse America and the Child Welfare League of America (CWLA) recently released a report called A Greater Investment in Prevention Provides a Greater Return on the Dollar to the Federal Government: A Call to Action for the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act.

"January 31, 2014 was the 40th anniversary of the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA), a historic law that was the first to recognize the need to address the prevention of child abuse and neglect."

CAPTA is the only federal legislation and funding that is dedicated exclusively to the continuum of child maltreatment services and support, which include preventing, assessing, identifying and treating child abuse and neglect.

Thanks to CAPTA, states receive grants to address child abuse prevention and treatment, and the funding is vital to the Prevent Child Abuse America 50-state chapter network and the prevention of child abuse and neglect.

Still, while this law is currently the best avenue the government has to tackle this complex issue, in 2015 the federal government is funding CAPTA at a level of just 32 cents per child per year.

"It is a time for all of us to make a commitment that every child deserves a great childhood and has an equal opportunity to become contributing members of our society."

A Journey to Success

The Healthy Families America program strives to provide all expectant and new parents with the opportunity to receive the education and support they need at the time their baby is born.

Here is one woman's incredible story:

A young mom learned she was pregnant two weeks after she turned 17 years old. "I didn't know what to do," she recalled. "I took two pregnancy tests. I couldn't imagine what my life would be like with a baby."

"I was scared of being responsible for another human being and scared about money and my current living situation," she said. "I didn't have a job then, so I didn't know how I would provide for my daughter."

After being referred to a local Healthy Families America program, she was matched with a family support worker who visited her regularly with information about parenting, local resources and more. "The program helped me organize my life," she said, "I learned to set goals and my family support worker helped me focus and achieve them."

Child and Family Well-Being

At Prevent Child Abuse America, we take an official position on issues vital to the well-being of our nation's children and families.

Research shows that investing in healthy child development reduces the likelihood of a significant array of costly conditions, including chronic health problems, premature mortality, lowered educational achievement, lost productivity, mental illness, violent crime, substance abuse and addiction, and the perpetuation of abuse and neglect.

We have re-branded the National Movement for America's Children as Connect the Dots and we have a new website we hope you will take a look at!

We also hope you will sign-up at the new site so we can send you updates about our activities.

And what we really want you to do is tell us what your "dot" is, i.e., what kind of everyday activities are you engaging in on behalf of your family, the families you know and your community.

Please sign-up and let us know what you think of the new site: http://www.whatsyourdot.org/ both the positives and what we can improve, and please let us know if you have any questions.

Why Celebrities Want You to Join Them in Painting One Fingernail Purple

PSA puts the nail in domestic violence By Katie Richards

Safe Horizon, a New York-based organization that supports domestic violence victims, launched a new, celebrity-filled PSA on Sunday. The promo is part of its "Put the nail in it" campaign to end domestic violence by literally putting the nail in it."

The 30-second spot, created pro bono by Arnold New York, features famous people who are close to the cause, including Alan Cumming, whose autobiography details an abusive upbringing, and Miss America 2015 Kira Kazantsev, a domestic violence survivor who has worked with Safe Horizon since her Miss New York days.

The organization leveraged personal connections to round out the PSA, nabbing New York Jets linebacker Quinton Coples through a board member and Kyra Sedgwick through a contact at the Creative Artists Agency Foundation.

As part of the campaign, men and women are encouraged to make a donation and paint their left ring fingernail a shade of purple—the color associated with domestic-violence prevention—and share a photo on Twitter.

"Our intention was to spark a conversation with a provocative campaign direction and then show the rest of the world that we supported the movement through the painting of the nail," said AnaLiza Alba, a creative director at Arnold. Since the PSA's launch over the weekend, the hashtag #PutTheNailInIt has scored Safe Horizon 850 interactions on Twitter and more than 520,000 impressions.

"Putting the nail in it" might seem like an aggressive image for an anti-violence campaign. But Peter Grossman, president of Arnold New York, said his team recognized the double meaning when it first proposed the idea.

"We liked that it was provocative and pushing the boundaries, and we thought it would help it to stand out and help drive the conversation," Grossman said. Both Arnold and Safe Horizon wanted a memorable message that still had a sense of fun.

"A lot of domestic violence messages can be dark and hard for the average person to embrace, while not making light of the issue," said Ariel Zwang, Safe Horizon's CEO. "We wanted something with a broader social currency."

Zwang noted that her organization wanted to capitalize on the attention Ray Rice and the NFL's "No More" campaign sparked for the domestic violence movement. She said the goal is to encourage action in addition to awareness.

"I think it's cute and light," Denene Jonielle Rodney, managing director of Zebra Strategies, told Adweek. She praised the nail-painting idea because it engages people without pushing them out of their comfort zones—like, say, dumping a bucket of ice over their heads might.

"We should put a nail into domestic violence," she said.

Date: September 26, 2015

Join St. Jude supporters in Tampa and in 58 cities nationwide in the St. Jude Walk/Run to End Childhood Cancer to raise money for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. During Childhood Cancer Awareness Month, we'll help St. Jude change the way the world understands, treats and defeats childhood cancer and other life-threatening diseases.

Register today

- Adults & children 6 and up – $10

Event schedule

Registration: 7 a.m.
Run Start: 8:30 A.M.
Walk Start: 8:45 A.M.

Raise money to support St. Jude patients

- Raise $100 and earn your official event T-shirt.
- Raise $250 to become a member of our Fearless Fundraiser Club and earn additional St. Jude gear as you fundraise.

How your support helps:

- Thanks to committed fundraisers like you, families never receive a bill from St. Jude for treatment, travel, housing or food.
- St. Jude freely shares the breakthroughs it makes, and every child saved at St. Jude means doctors and scientists worldwide can use that knowledge to save thousands more children.
